

NEW ABSTRACT:

Please find the following new abstract:

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A fuel injection system of an internal combustion engine has, depending on the number of cylinders, at least one local pump element, assigned to each injector, of a unit fuel injector or a pump-line-nozzle system for compressing the fuel. The injector and/or the supply line to the injector form a local pressure reservoir chamber.

5